Bringing ONSITE HEALTH & WELLNESS to the workplace

Understanding health risks is the first step toward healthier employees and a healthier bottom line. That's why Cigna offers its onsite health and wellness resources to all new and renewing Cigna clients with fewer than 250 employees² as part of your company's health plan.

Did you know?

How does it work?

Cigna's biometric screening package provided in collaboration with Summit Health combines a comprehensive health screening and personalized health coaching to help participants take actions to improve their health and, ultimately, reduce overall medical costs – and it's all included as part of your company's health plan.

Cigna's biometric screening packages include:

- Single station screening model – The complete screening and results coaching is conducted at one station with the same health professional for increased patient satisfaction.
- Finger-stick blood draw – This quick, relatively painless method of blood draw allows for immediate results analysis.
- Results coaching and medical recommendations – A health coach reviews the participant's results, explains where they fall in health/at-risk range and national standards, and identifies steps they can take to improve their scores.
